

THE BIG PICTURE | SILVER

IT'S OBVIOUS THIS BARRINGTON HOME'S stylish decor complements the architecture and the family's lifestyle. Interior designer Kelly Taylor has orchestrated one lovely room after another, and they all gel from furnishings to casings. Bringing attention to the high ceilings and architectural details with subtle moves – inside mounted draperies, for instance, carefully choreographed soft lighting and a lush palette of browns and creams – Taylor skillfully draws out the refined home's best. Balance, scale, proportion; nothing is amiss. And – here's a bonus the owners appreciate – as sophisticated as the theme appears, it's also kid-friendly.

INTERIOR DESIGN: Kelly Taylor, Kelly Taylor Interior Design, Providence

ARCHITECT: Gregory J. Snider Architects, Providence

BUILDER: Butera Building, Barrington

MILLWORK: Jutras Woodworking, Greenville

STAIR CONSTRUCTION: Cooper Stairworks, Somerset, Mass.

LIGHTING CONSULTANT: Light Resource and Design, Ashaway

PHOTOGRAPHER: Nat Rea

WELL TAILORED | BRONZE

ADMIRING OF THIS NEW HOME'S ARCHITECTURE, our pros became equally enraptured with the unpretentious interior. The carefully edited rooms brimming with natural light exude tranquility. Take the soaring hall, for instance, where pale walls contrast with a burnished wood floor. A lone table and chair keep watch; the window is curtainless. Other areas are cozier; the custom kitchen is a cook's dream and an inviting hub for gathering. But, in general, this charming home is without excesses – who needs them? – and that's why it nabbed a prize.

INTERIOR DESIGN AND ARCHITECTURE: Michael McKinley and Associates, Charlestown and Stonington, Conn.

BUILDER: Yankee Remodeler of New London, New London, Conn.

PHOTOGRAPHER: Kindra Clineff